Guardians of the Garden

Gnomes have been a part of gardening culture for centuries, bringing charm and whimsy to yards around the world. These small, bearded figures are said to be protectors of gardens, watching over plants and warding off pests. Their popularity is celebrated every June 10 on International Garden Gnome Day, a fun occasion for garden enthusiasts to showcase their favorite gnome statues. Some even extend the festivities into Gnome Week, taking the time to rearrange their gnome displays or add new ones.

The tradition of garden gnomes dates back to 19th-century Germany, where they were originally made from terracotta. By the late 1800s, they had spread across Europe, becoming especially popular in England. The first mass-produced gnomes were created by a German company called Philipp Griebel, whose descendants still produce them today using the original patterns and molds. They were made in the style of miners who had worked in the area, complete with red hats and wheelbarrows. At the height of production, Griebel’s factory made approximately 300 different gnomes.

Gnomes have even made their way into pop culture. From fantasy novels to animated films, they are often depicted as mischievous yet wise creatures. Some travelers even participate in “gnome-napping” pranks, where a garden gnome is taken on an adventure and returned with photos from its journey.

Beyond their playful reputation, gnomes bring a sense of personality to gardens. Whether tucked among flowers or standing guard by a vegetable patch, they add a touch of fun to outdoor spaces. Many gardeners believe gnomes bring good luck, helping plants thrive and flourish. Paired with colorful flowers, stone pathways, or miniature fairy gardens, gnomes can make any yard feel more magical.

As June arrives and gardens come into full bloom, it’s the perfect time to celebrate these tiny guardians. If you don’t already have a garden gnome, this might be the year to welcome one!

Jean Bryan

Jean Bryan was born June 27th in Fawn Grove, PA. She graduated from Kennard-Dale High School in 1967, and afterwards went to work at Peach Bottom Atomic Plant. She later worked for Bechtel Construction, in payroll and accounting, for about 20 years.

Jean met her husband, Sam, when she was living near Pottstown, and they were married in 1982. She had three step-children through her husband, and has many nieces and nephews as well.

Jean attended Fawn Grove Methodist (now Fawn Grove Community Church) for most of her life, and sang in the choir there. She participated in their Old Time Days event for about 30 years as well. Jean greatly enjoyed quilting, and loves gardening too. She lived in the cottages on our campus for 13 years, before moving to Zimmerman Place in April of 2024. We couldn’t be happier to have her! When you see Jean around, be sure to say, “Hello!”, you will be glad you did.
