Wonders of the Great Lakes

The Great Lakes—Lake Superior, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, Lake Erie, and Lake Ontario—are not only beautiful but also vital to the environment, economy, and wildlife. These five lakes, which make up the largest freshwater system in the world by total area, are home to more than 30 million people and provide a habitat for countless species. Additionally, they contain about 84 percent of North America’s fresh surface water!

Every year, people across the U.S. and Canada celebrate the Great Lakes during events like Great Lakes Awareness Day, observed this year on May 5. This day highlights the importance of protecting the lakes and raising awareness about environmental issues that threaten their health, such as pollution and invasive species.

But the celebrations don’t stop there. May 10 marks World Migratory Bird Day. The Great Lakes provide crucial resting areas for birds traveling along their migration paths, making them key to preserving biodiversity. Some of the most notable migratory birds passing through the region include the peregrine falcon, the fastest animal on Earth, and the common loon, which uses the lakes for nesting and fishing. The Great Lakes serve as an essential hub, especially for species traveling from the Gulf of Mexico to breeding grounds in Canada.

The Great Lakes are not only a stunning natural resource but also a treasure trove of history and recreation. Their waters have witnessed countless historic events, such as the sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald in Lake Superior in 1975. The lakes still conceal many sunken vessels, offering a fascinating glimpse into the past. Beyond their historical significance, the Great Lakes are a destination for outdoor recreation. Boating, fishing, kayaking, and hiking are just a few of the activities that draw millions of visitors each year. The picturesque shorelines, sandy beaches, and scenic trails make them a favorite for summer vacations. Whether you’re exploring the history beneath the surface or enjoying the natural beauty above, the Great Lakes remain an essential part of the American and Canadian landscape.

Joyce Pennewill

Resident of the Month May 2025

Joyce Pennewill was born April 29th near Railroad, PA. For over thirty years she worked as an elementary teacher in Dallastown School District. She met her husband, Allen, through a mutual friend, and they were married for over thirty years.

Today, Joyce has one son, Scott, three grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Joyce has always had a great love for gardening. When she lived in the cottages, she helped to found and work our community garden. She is also a fabulous painter, and taught our cottagers’ Painting 201 class. Also Joyce is a wonderful writer, and has written articles published in our local newspapers. Joyce has always loved horses, and enjoyed horseback riding with her husband. Joyce moved to Zimmerman Place in January of 2024, and we couldn’t be happier to have her here. When you see her around, be sure to say, “Hello!”, you will be glad you did!
