All About Oktoberfest

Beer, sausage, sauerkraut, schnitzel, strudel, amusement park rides, great music, and more beer. Sound like fun? It is—it’s Oktoberfest!

A Royal Wedding Started It All

Now billed as the largest volksfest, or “people’s fair,” in the world, the first Oktoberfest was held on October 12, 1810, in honor of the wedding of Crown Prince Ludwig (later King Ludwig I) and Princess Therese of Saxe- Hildburghausen. The happy couple wanted to share their joy with all of Munich, so they invited the entire city to join in the festivities held in the fields in front of the city gates. A parade led to feasting, music, and dancing that went on for several days. Horse races attended by the royal family ended the celebration. When it was later decided to make the horse races an annual event, the tradition of Oktoberfest was born.

Why Does Oktoberfest Begin in September?

In 1811, an agricultural show was added to the horse races to help promote the food products— including beer—of Bavaria. The races continued until 1960, and the agricultural show is now held every four years instead of every year. Carnival booths, games, and sideshows appeared in 1816. In 1819 the citizens of Munich, rather than the royal family, assumed the responsibility for the planning and management of Oktoberfest. Later, it was decided to lengthen the celebration. The festival was moved forward a few weeks from the original wedding anniversary date to the end of September, taking advantage of the lingering longer, warmer days of summer. As Munich became a more modern European city in the late 19th century, Oktoberfest changed as well. Electricity illuminated the more than 400 booths and tents for the first time in 1880. Stoneware beer mugs were replaced by heavy glass mugs in 1892, because, so the story goes, patrons complained that they couldn’t be sure the stoneware mugs were full to the brim! By the end of the 1800s, Oktoberfest had been reorganized from a highly agrarian festival to a more commercial national celebration with plenty of room for guests to dance to world-famous bands, and large hall-style beer tents replaced the old booths.

Oktoberfest in Modern Times

After World War II, Munich slowly rebuilt and reinstated the fun and flamboyance of Oktoberfest, albeit with some significant changes. One important change, initiated in 1950, was a formal opening ceremony. Since then, after a 12-gun salute, the mayor of Munich taps the first keg of special Oktoberfest beer, exclaims “O’zapft is!” (translation: “It’s tapped!”), and hands a glass to the minister-president of the State of Bavaria. The parade that was part of the royal wedding celebration in 1810 was reinstated in 1850 as the Grand Parade that now helps kick off the festival. Over 8,000 people wearing traditional Bavarian costumes participate. The parade includes many of the bands that play throughout the festival, as well as ornately decorated teams of horses representing official Oktoberfest breweries.

Assisted Living Week 2025: “Ageless Adventure”

September 8-12

Join us for a week of programs celebrating Lifelong Adventure! Each day we will “travel” to a different destination. At 2:00 Monday through Thursday, you can join us for a snack, themed from the country we will be visiting that day. On Friday, join us for a community luau for supper! You can also dress in theme for each day. If you don’t have anything to wear, pick something up at the front desk!

Additionally, throughout the week you can share “your biggest adventure” in your lifetime with our community through our adventure sharing board in the lobby.

Monday: New Zealand

Snack– Hokey-pokey dessert (vanilla ice cream, toffee, honeycomb)

Tuesday: Switzerland

Snack– Rosti (potato pancakes)

Wednesday: Greece

Snack- Gyro bites (chicken chopped on gyro bread with lettuce, tomato, and tzatziki sauce)

Thursday: Germany

Snack- Bratwurst with sauerkraut

Friday: Hawaii

Community Luau at 5:00
