Indian Steps Museum in Airville, PA on Monday, November 2

Indian Steps Museum is a one-of-a-kind destination set along the Susquehanna River. Originally an arts and crafts style cabin, it was completed in 1912 by a wealthy lawyer from York County, PA. John Edward Vandersloot wanted to share his local prehistoric Indian artifact collection with his guests by embedding these items both in the interior and exterior of the building. Vandersloot was enamored with Native American history and culture and built the cabin as a testament to the long history of Native American Indians. Indian Steps is one of five properties owned and maintained by the Conservation Society of York County, a nearly 100-year-old nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving York County's natural, prehistoric, and historic landscapes. The cost is $6.00 and the house is 3 floors and has no elevator. We will enjoy dinner at the Great American Saloon on our way home. Please sign up in the program binder by Friday, October 30.
